Tubercular Soldiers Being Restored to Active Life

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—Officials of the Dominion Hospitals' Commission state that on August 29 there were in Canada 331 soldiers back from the front undergoing treatment for lung trouble, and 180 more are expected from overseas within the next six weeks. For soldiers who have fallen victim to tuberculosis there are several special sanatoria, but more will be required.

Splendid contributions of this kind to the national cause have been made by public-spirited Canadians, and the growth of the need will doubtless stimulate fresh offers to meet it.

Nearly all the convalescent institutions of the Military Hospitals' Commission have been generously devoted to this use by the owners, free of rent, and in some cases the loan includes furniture and other equipment.

While many of these institutions were private houses, others belong to public bodies and others again were hotels. For example, there are the Deer Lodge hotel at Winnipeg, with accommodation for 150, and the Ogden hotel at Calgary, lent fully equipped for the use of 140 men.

In the province of Quebec, some months ago, the Laurentide Inn at St. Agathe was generously lent to the commission by D. Lorne McGillivray. About one hundred tubercular soldiers are now in residence there and at the neighboring Laurentian sanatorium under the same medical officer. With the thorough and enlightened treatment developed by modern science, many soldiers are being restored to useful citizenship who would otherwise have been lost to the country.

Blairmore Red Cross

We acknowledge with thanks receipt of $70.50 from the West Canadian Colonies Co. this week.

Only one more shipment can be sent in before the end of the business year—September 30th. This shipment will have to be ready by the 20th inst., at least, and we are still short 173 articles of the 10,000 one as issued to us by the end of the second year. The president and regular workers have been making heroic efforts to reach the mark. What about others who might be helping?

Wedding Bells

DREWART—CLELAND

A quiet wedding took place at the Presbyterian manse, Cowley, on Tuesday, September 5th, when George Davidson Drewart was united in the bonds of matrimony to Miss Alberta Cleland, second daughter of the late Michael Cleland, of Lacette, Quebec. The bride appeared charmingly attired in a navy blue travelling suit, trimmed with cream lace, and wore a large picture hat of black velvet trimmed with gold lace and moss roses. After the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. W. M. Chalmers, P. C., the happy couple left for Medicine Hat, where they will spend a few days with the groom's brother. We all unite in wishing the newly-married couple a long, prosperous and happy married life.

C.P.R. Telegraph Inaugurate Day Letter Service

J. McMillan, who has initiated many notable improvements since he became general manager of the C. P. R. telegraph eighteen months ago, has decided to inaugurate an important service entirely new to Canada over the "landred" and ten thousand miles of wire under his immediate control, namely the day letter, which may now be sent between points in Canada on the Canadian Pacific system at a rate very much reduced as compared with the usual commercial rush telegram. Mr. McMillan is convinced that many of those who send telegrams would be quite satisfied if these arrived on the same day, whereas as a portion of the cost of the rush telegram is due to the cost of speedy delivery. The day letter of fifty words will be rated at one and a half times the cost of a regular rush message of ten words and can still bring an answer the same day, which is as quick as many people desire. There are sixteen hundred C. P. R. telegraph offices throughout Canada, at each of which the new service will be in force, so that this will be a Dominion wide service stretching from Lonsburg, Nova Scotia, to Victoria, B. C. Messages will be taken in either French or English, code words not being permissible.—Valcan Advocate.

Our Debt of Honor to Serbia

In a recent public speech the Serbians were graphically described as "the people who heaved in the pathway between the east and the west, had protected Christianity for the west through the ages against nations greedy for power and conquest; the people so imbued with the love of home that their women fought side by side in the trenches with their men that home and all it meant to them, their freedom and liberty, might be theirs." As the residents of the buffer state between Orient and Occident, they had been for centuries drawn into wars which were not wars of protection of power and property, but of ideals and liberty. This last and gravest war, which had ravaged their country, had a peculiar interest for citizens of the British Empire. To those able to think impartially and politically, the preservation of Serbia meant the presence of a guardian of Britain's interests in the east. At the same time, to everyone, British or not, it meant the caring for, and, later, the restoration of a proud, simple-living, home-loving people to their native land and the power to rebuild their ravaged civilization.

"We must make sure Serbia is left alive. She must rebuild her homes and her simple peasant life. We were all thrilled by the stories of Belgian refugees and their experiences, but Belgians fled their country in summer weather and they had three rich countries, France, England and Holland, waiting to take them in.

"But consider the case of the Serbians. It is a wonder there are any of these people left alive after the horrors of last winter. They had to cross the Albanian mountains with all the dangers attendant on a journey over such barren wildernesses for old men and women and children. The pathways were strewn with the dead bodies of their countrymen who had suffered by the way. Their journeys lasted for months sometimes, and their destinations, when reached, were countries even more than their own. Of one party of 20,000 only 8,000 reached a friendly shelter. The people of Montenegro suffered much the same fate.

"For those who dared to defy the invader and remain, we know what happened. The homes were needed to house soldiers, and as for the women—we all know what has happened to the women of any country German armies have entered. Thousands of French, Belgian, Serbian, and women of other races today are wishing themselves dead instead of alive. We cannot do anything for them now. Only God and our armies can avenge their wrongs, but we can help those in exile in Greece, Corsica, Italy, or southern France to keep alive until the end of the war. The women and children, on whom depend the future of Serbia, must be looked after, and this can only be done by a steady effort."

The British Serbian Relief Fund is caring for thousands of refugees, concentrated in the different camps, and in addition is sending regular supplies of food and clothing to the 60,000 Serbian prisoners; it provides also for 100 children lately arrived in Oxford.

The Canadian Serbian Relief Committee forwards all funds, etc., to the British Committee, and also to the Montenegrin government now located in Bordeaux, France.

Contributions, which are urgently needed, may be sent to the Treasurer, Rev. Cox Clark, 500 Eighteenth Avenue West, Calgary, or to the President, Mr. J. B. Dennis, Department of Natural Resources Building, Calgary.

The deprivation of public works should perhaps be commended for their plans to better conditions for the pedestrians of the Crows' Nest Pass. A Coleman man has been appointed, who engages Coleman men and teams to work on the Slide road. The outfit leave Coleman on or about 8 a.m. and reach the site of operations about 10, leaving for home again about 4 p.m. The work that is being accomplished in a fortnight by this method, could be accomplished by less men, locally, in a week. The public are paying dearly for this work, and should rise in protest against this scheme.

New Mexico boasts of having the largest dam in the world. We know of some pessimists, locally, who can "damn" the whole world.

The Prosperity of a Community depends upon the success of its Merchants

Are we, as a community, pulling together? Or, are we pulling in opposite directions? Organization is the great community need of the day. Without organization men and women are apt to sink below the level of mules. Even mules, in times of danger of panic have been known to co-operate. They sometimes kick together. If it were given to mules to think, they would wonder at the ways of men. That men and women, living and working in the same community, should refuse to co-operate, is one of the riddles of civilization. The only benefits we can share with our neighbors. Individual benefits count for little. It is the co-operative efforts that bring everlasting good. Good roads, factories, better schools, good markets can only be secured when all pull together. Every man, woman and child in this community should give one hour each day to community work. But don't wait for someone else to start it. There is work for you to do, so begin with yourself
